ALGIRS (AP) — A howling mob of 2,000 French students rioted in Algeria's capital today, demanding a tougher French fight to put down the 18-month-old nationalist rebellion in the North African territory.

Shouting "l'armée au pouvoir!" (put the army in power!), the students hurled tomatoes at Robert Lacoste, French resident minister, and threw chairs from sidewalk cafes at police who attacked them with their gas bombs.

The new outbreak against Premier Guy Mollet's policies followed two days of a stepped-up rebel campaign in which 20 European settlers have been killed and more than 50 French farms burned out.

The nationalists staged two attacks only 23 miles from Algiers during the night, killing six Arabs who had served with French forces.

The French meanwhile claimed a 4 to 1 toll of their Arab opponents. They reported 97 rebels had been killed during the past two days, 73 in a battle near Constantine.

Primaries in Five States Tuesday

By The Associated Press

Five states held primary elections today in the wake of yesterday's Maryland primary, in which Democrats apparently gave Millard Tydings a hairline edge in his fight to regain the U. S. Senate seat he lost in 1950.

Residents of Indiana, Ohio, Florida, West Virginia and New Mexico were balloting today, but national interest centered chiefly on the relative Republican-Democratic vote in Indiana.

Republicans expected to get most, as usual, but Democrats hoped for a substantial farm vote switchover. Relative performance of President Eisenhower on the Republican and Sen. Estes Kefauver on the Democratic side were sure to be watched closely.

In yesterday's Maryland voting, nearly complete returns gave Tydings a narrow popular vote lead over George P. Mahoney, challenging him for the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Republican Sen. Butler.

Reports from 1,261 of 1,277 precincts gave Tydings 138,915 votes to 131,219 for Mahoney. The popular vote could be the deciding factor since they were tied 78-78 in unit votes for nomination—similar to presidential electoral votes.

But Mahoney forces talked of possible recounts in subdivisions where the popular vote was close. Mahoney, a Baltimore contractor, could win if he gained more unit votes—which go to the candidate getting most votes in a subdivision.

Butler unseated Tydings in 1950 after a bitter campaign. Butler himself handily won GOP renomination yesterday.

Maryland Democrats gave their 18 national convention votes to Kefauver, who was opposed only by an uninstruced delegation. He won by a much narrower margin than in the same race four years ago.

President Eisenhower defeated an unpledged GOP slate by a heavy margin.

Hell's Canyon Deal to Be a Political Issue

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders were reported clearing the way today to bring the controversial Hell's Canyon Dam bill before the Senate for a pre-election assault on President Eisenhower's power policies.

Party leaders were represented as ready to recommend the transfer of Sen. Long of Louisiana from the Interior to the Foreign Relations Committee in a shakeup of Democratic assignments following the death last week of Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky.

If this move gains expected approval of the Democratic Steering Committee and the Senate, Long would be replaced on the Interior Committee by an as-yet-unselected Democrat favoring a bill to authorize construction of a federal dam at Hell's Canyon, on the Snake River near the Idaho-Oregon border.

Long has lined up with Republican members of the Interior group against the federal Hell's Canyon project.

His stand has kept bottled up in the committee a bill which Democrats have come to regard as a symbol of their conflict with the Eisenhower administration over power policies.

The Federal Power Commission has authorized the Idaho Power Co. to build three low-level dams on the Snake. This is in line with the Eisenhower administration's policy of sharing natural resource development with private enterprise.

Although Idaho Power's permit has been challenged in the courts, the company already has begun work on two of the three dams which would flood the site of the proposed federal high dam project.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler has called action on the Hell's Canyon project to Democratic election prospects in the Pacific Northwest. Senators Morse (D-Ore.) and Magnuson (D-Wash.), two of the prime targets of Republican efforts to regain control of the Senate, are backers of the federal dam proposal.

Even its supporters don't expect the Hell's Canyon bill to pass Congress this year. The House Interior Committee has bottled up an identical bill, with little present prospect of action on it.

But Democratic leaders believe Senate debate on the issue will give them a forum for attacking Eisenhower power policies even if they fail to pass the measure there.

Leaders are expected to recommend the elevation of Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota to chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Practicing Angler Knocks Out Power
CONWAY (AP) — A fisherman practicing his casting knocked out the power in this central Arkansas town for about 20 minutes last night.

The unidentified sportsman, working on his casting, got his line tangled with power line, said Walter Seales, manager of the municipal power plant.

In trying to free his line, he pulled two wires together. The resulting short stalled the generator for the town's system.

Director Tells of Probe Leading to Tax Scandal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Internal Revenue Service director testified today about his investigation of an income tax evasion case which led to conspiracy charges against two top officials in the Truman administration.

Ernest M. Flinn was the government's first witness in the federal trial of Matthew J. Connelly, former White House appointments secretary; T. Lamar appointments mer head of the Justice Department's tax division, and Harry I. Schwimmer, onetime Kansas City attorney and now a Puerto Rican businessman.

They are charged with conspiring to stall and sidetrack prosecution of Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer who was fined $40,000 in 1951 for income tax evasion.

Flinn testified he opened a criminal tax file after a visit in 1945 to the shoe firm where he talked with Sachs and a woman employee. He said his investigation showed the firm had filed false returns for 1942 through 1945.

Flinn, an internal revenue intelligence agent when he started the investigation, said a number of conferences were set up with him by Sachs' attorney and Sidney Cohen, a certified public accountant who represented Sachs.

Flinn said no promises of immunity were made to anyone and that in May of 1947 Cohen sent a check for $185,000 representing the accountant's estimate of taxes still owed by the shoe firm.

Flinn traced for the jury the route of an income tax case through the Internal Revenue Bureau and Justice Department before it is finally prosecuted.

Syllus Newcomb, special assistant to the attorney general and chief trial prosecutor, charged in his opening statement Connelly and Caudie received oil royalties from Schwimmer for their help in the Sachs case.

Spa Group to Seek Own Amendment

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — A Hot Springs group will try for adoption of a constitutional amendment specifically authorizing horse races and pari mutuel betting here.

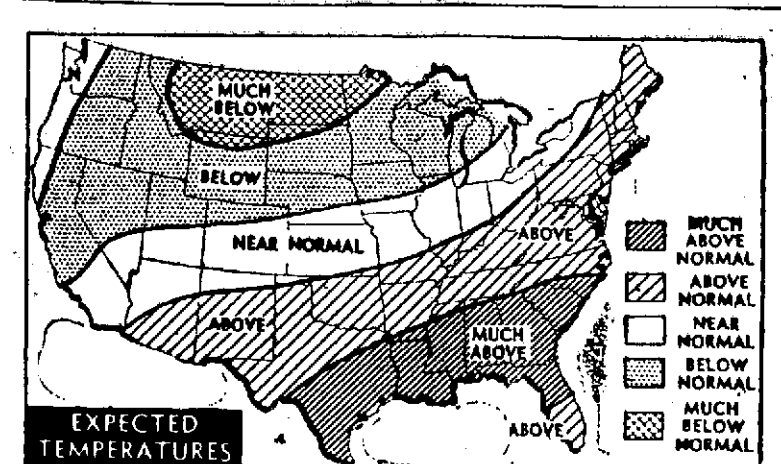

The effort obviously attempts to nullify, so far as Hot Springs is concerned, a campaign by the recently-organized Arkansas Christian Citizens Council to end horse racing and proposed dog racing in the state by outlawing all pari mutuel betting.

Mort Cox, secretary-manager of the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that he had submitted to Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry at Little Rock the forms of petitions by which the group here hopes to get its proposed amendment on the November general election ballot.

The attorney general must certify that certain legal requirements are met. Next step then will be to try to obtain signatures of some 33,000 qualified voters to place the measure on the ballot.

The proposed amendment declares that "horse racing and pari mutuel betting thereon shall be lawful in Hot Springs, Garland County, Arkansas, and shall be regulated by the General Assembly."

Ark-La Rate Protested by Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — A group of apartment house owners here protested to the City Council last night a new billing procedure by Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. The delegation said the new procedure is "discriminatory."

F. DeElliot, spokesman for the group, told the council that under the new system, owners must install a meter for each apartment. The alternative, he said, is to be billed from a single meter, with the amount determined by multiplying the meter reading by the number of apartments in the building.

DeElliot said the owners were notified of the change, effective with this month's billing in a letter signed A. T. McMillan, Arkansas Louisiana division manager.

One member of the delegation told the council that if he took the option of installing a separate meter for each apartment, it would cost $400 to adjust his building's plumbing to the new system.

McMillan, citing March 27 ruling of the state Public Service Commission, said the new billing procedure was an effort to end discrimination against apartment houses. He said that apartment houses with separate meters now pay more for gas than do buildings with one meter for all apartments.

He agreed the new procedure would result in higher costs during the summer months, but he said that during the winter the bills would be reduced because of increased consumption.

DeElliot said apartment owners at this resort city are not in the same situation as owners in other cities where tenants are more permanent.

Many Hot Springs apartments, he said, are rented by tourists, and in the off-season are vacant. A tourist in Hot Springs for just a few days or a weekend would not be interested in putting up a deposit for a gas meter, DeElliot said.

No Critical List in Wreck of Train-Truck

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — More than 100 schoolchildren and teachers were injured yesterday when their baseball excursion train was wrecked in a collision with a loaded gravel truck.

The diesel locomotive remained on the tracks, but 10 of the 18 cars hurtled off the rails. The train was carrying 907 pupils and their adult escorts from Portage in south central Wisconsin to Milwaukee for a Milwaukee-Brooklyn baseball game.

A total of 104 persons were admitted to two hospitals. Thirty-seven, 23 of them children, remained overnight. None were listed in critical condition.

The truck driver, Gordon Hinckley, 35, Wales, Wis., suffered compound fractures of both legs and internal injuries but was listed in "fair" condition.

The crash occurred at the DuPlainville crossing, five miles north of here and 23 miles west of Milwaukee.

Navy Rocket Fails to Meet Expectations

WHIT SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M. (UP) — The Navy today launched its Aerobee-Hi rocket, shooting for a new altitude record, but the rocket climbed only to 116.5 miles into the atmosphere, far short of a record and hoped for heights.

A spokesman said there was no major malfunction and that the launching was a success for purposes of testing the performance of the new-type rocket.

But he said the performance "was not nearly what had been anticipated."

The Navy had hoped to reach an altitude of 185 miles with the rocket, launched at 8:15 a. m. (MST) on this vast proving ground.

A previous attempt last week ended in complete failure when the rocket's motor failed to start and the rocket went up about 10,000 feet, propelled by a booster engine, then dropped back to earth.

The Navy spokesman said the rocket took 51 seconds to burn its load of fuel, the burnout coming at about 79,000 feet. The rocket at that time was travelling about 5,400 feet per second. It coasted to a maximum altitude of 116.5 miles before it began the descent to earth. The spokesman said it took about 222 seconds for the rocket to reach the peak of its climb.

It dropped to earth about 60,000 yards north of the launching site. The spokesman said the launching was a success in that the Navy's scientists were able to study the performance of the rocket.

He said it "flew well" even though it did not reach the altitude which had been hoped for.

He said such things as propulsion, structural performance and flight characteristics were measured with instruments, 120 pounds of them, which the rocket carried.

He said studies of these data obtained during the flight will be used to help engineers make further improvements in the rocket.

He said it would be some time before the scientists would know why the rocket failed to reach 185 miles and that a thorough study would be made of the motor.

The rocket weighed 1,050½ pounds and was propelled by a mixture of nitric acid, aniline and alcohol.

Much of the data from the test will be used by scientists who are working on the first earth satellite.

The Navy spokesman said that information about the ionosphere was obtained but it was not immediately known if scientists obtained all that they needed in this respect by the 11.5 mile flight, though the test, scientists had wanted to obtain information which would let them know how thick they must make the shell of the satellite, what to expect in the way of meteor dust and other facts.

Anti-Racing Gets Alliance Endorsement

In a meeting here this week the Hope Ministerial Alliance went on record endorsing a statewide anti-racing movement and pledged support to the program. The group issued the following statement:

"The Ministerial Alliance endorses the State-wide Anti-Racing Council Program and that we as an Alliance lend our influence, vote, and efforts in any way we can to promote this cause."

"Further, we feel that it is indeed a moral issue that affects all our state and not just those affected thereby. We as citizens of Arkansas cannot evade our responsibility further."

Tito Calls for Closer French, Slav Relations

BY GORGE A. MCARTHUR
PARIS (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia today called for closer links between France and his country "to demonstrate our common will to consolidate peace in the world."

Tito, on a state visit to France, spoke at a reception in the gaily decorated Hotel de Ville (Town Hall) of Paris.

"I would like to express our gratitude to your city," he told the chairman of the Municipal Council, "because it has contributed so much to the education of our doctors and our other scientific workers."

"This city is an inspiration for all those who wish to consolidate peace in the world and create an atmosphere of understanding between peoples."

Strict security precautions prevailed as the Communist chief of state drove from the Elysee Palace to the Hotel de Ville. He moved between double lines of police. Firemen perched on rooftops all along the route closely watching all windows.

French officials said the security measures were taken at the request of the Yugoslavian Embassy.

A large crowd—most people are off today in France to commemorate V-E day—stood behind the fences watching the Tito motorcade but there were no cheers.

The smiling marshal, dressed in a light blue uniform with red striped trousers, and Mrs. Tito, wearing a light pink dress, were taken to the Hotel de Ville in an open car by President Rene Coty.

Later the Titos and Coty drove to the 17th century Hotel de Lauzun in the nearby Ile Saint Louis—the cradle of the city of Paris—for a formal lunch.

Last night Tito spoke at a state dinner. He warned against the danger of nuclear war, and urged a search for new paths of understanding between East and West.

Meet Here to Set Up Water Study Group

A meeting to set up a county water study committee is to be held in the Municipal Court room of the Hope City Hall on Monday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock.

A state-wide study, county by county, of water resources and needs in Arkansas has been inaugurated by the Arkansas Water Study Commission.

County Agent Oliver L. Adams was asked to act as temporary chairman in calling the meeting of interested people to set up the Hempstead County Water Studies Committee. A non-governmental person is to be elected chairman. The county committee representing all interests is to develop facts which the state study commission can use in drafting a water-rights bill for action of the 1957 legislature.

Representatives of groups known to be interested in the water needs of agriculture, municipalities, industries, wild life preservation and recreation have been invited to take part in the May 14 organizational meeting. Any others interested in our water problems and who would be willing to assist are urged by County Agent Adams to be in attendance.

Tydings May Get Chance at Butler

BALTIMORE (AP) — Millard E. Tydings apparently has won a chance to regain his old seat in the Senate from the man who took it from him six years ago.

"I'm a tired boy" the 66-year-old political veteran confided early today after satisfying himself he had won in yesterday's primary election.

Nearly complete, unofficial returns gave him a narrow edge over George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination. Mahoney refused to admit defeat, yet, however.

Sen. John Marshall Butler won overwhelmingly in his bid for Republican renomination.

Tydings served as Senator for 24 years before his defeat in 1950 by Butler. It came shortly after a special Senate Investigating subcommittee headed by Tydings failed to substantiate charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that Communists were in the State Department. McCarthy said the committee's report was a "whitewash."

Butler, in his campaign, supported McCarthy's stand. McCarthy supporters backed him.

Reports from 1,261 of 1,277 polling places gave Tydings 138,915 votes, Mahoney 131,219. Since they were tied 78-78 in nominating unit votes, similar to the Electoral College votes in presidential elections, the popular vote would be the deciding factor. This is the first unit vote tie in Maryland history.

Wilson Denies Russia Ahead of U. S. in Airpower

WASHINGTON (UP) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson today categorically denied reports that Russia is "far outstripping" the United States in air power.

"This is not so," Wilson told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee. Wilson also disclosed that:

1. U. S. production of B-52 intercontinental jet bombers will build up to a peak of 20 planes a month. He did not say when this peak output will be reached, but defense sources have indicated it will be early in 1958.

2. The armed forces plan to spend $3 billion for research, development and production of guided missiles during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Wilson said military buying will include "large sums for missiles, particularly for ballistic missiles, which have been under accelerated development for some time."

He said that "all steps possible are taken to see that ballistic missile development is not hampered."

The services will buy more than $2.3 billion worth of missiles and spend about $300 million on missile research in fiscal 1957. Missiles for air defense, such as the Air Force's Falcon, Army Nike, and Navy Sparrow will come in increasing numbers from now on, Wilson said.

Wilson's testimony came as the subcommittee began hearings on the administration's $3.9 billion military spending budget for the coming fiscal year. It was clearly intended to answer Democratic charges that the budget provides unequal funds for air power, and that the United States is lagging behind Russia in long-range bomber production and in guided missile development.

Dulles Says U. S. Will Do What It Can

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of State Dulles has told U. S. allies this country will do all it can to help them send arms to Israel while maintaining its own embargo on weapons shipments to the Middle East.

This was learned authoritatively today following Dulles' return from a North Atlantic Treaty meeting in Paris.

Dulles declared on arriving here that NATO still is primarily a military organization. But he said a need has been recognized for its further development "to surmount the shifting tactics of international communism," and added:

"No time is to be lost in realizing this enlarged goal for NATO. The secretary is expected to expand on this theme in a report on his trip to be carried by radio and television networks tonight."

The address is scheduled at 8 p. m. EDT.

U. S. Calls in Tax-Fixing Witnesses

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The government called its first witnesses today in the tax-fixing trial of two men who held high places in the Truman administration. The chief prosecutor said there will be some surprises.

The accused are Matthew J. Connolly, former appointments secretary at the White House; T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's Tax Division; and Harry L. Schwimmer, Puerto Rican businessman and onetime Kansas City attorney.

They are charged with conspiracy to stall and sidetrack the prosecution of Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer who was fined $40,000 in 1951 for income tax evasion.

Willy Newcomb, special assistant to the attorney general and chief prosecutor for the trial, charged in his opening statement Connolly and Caudle received oil royalties from Schwimmer for their help.

Schwimmer was attorney for Sachs.

Schwimmer got a $3600 royalty and Caudle one for $3,300, the prosecutor said. He said Caudle gave his back only after a St. Louis grand jury had started an investigation to determine if the Sachs case was fixed.

The 51-year-old Caudle, now an attorney in Wadesboro, N. C., was fired by Truman for having conflicting outside interests. Connolly, 45, now is a New York public relations man.

Navy Divers to Seek Girl's Body

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Three Navy divers planned to leave this morning for Arkadelphia to help in the search for a Ouachita Baptist college girl who drowned in the Ouachita River late Sunday.

At the request of state police, the Navy Recruiting Service searched its ranks and came up with one qualified diver and two others who have had experience working underwater. Chief Emmett Trinton and Petty Officer First Class J. K. Loftidge, both of Little Rock, will work under the supervision of Petty Officer D. H. Wolfe of Jonesboro.

They will search for the body of Mary Ruth Lamb of Jacksonville, who was drowned when a boatload of students overturned in the river close to the campus. Crews have been dragging the river on an almost around-the-clock operation since the accident.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures were lower today in dull trading. Uncertainty over possible changes in the government's cotton export policy in view of the small sales at the first auction held under the new export program unsettled the futures market.

Late afternoon prices were unchanged to 55 cents a bale lower than the previous close. May 33.97, July 33.86 and October 32.42.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK (AP) — Price movements were irregular today in the Stock Market with a handful of strong issues standing out against a background of numerous small losers.

In the early afternoon, gains were stretched to between 3 and 4 points at the outside. Losses went to between 1 and 2 points at the most in key instances.

The aircrafts were higher with the railroads, but their gains were rather small. Some active oils were higher, but large losers also appeared in that division. The steel was mixed.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

CHICAGO (AP) — An easy tone prevailed in grains on the Board of Trade today as mild liquidation and hedging uncovered only limited demand.

Old crop soybeans suffered the worst spill, dropping around 5 cents before staging a recovery. Wheat continued to be relatively weak in view of trade feeling crop prospects were improved.

About the only resistance to the selling was shown by distant oats contracts, which moved above the previous close at times. Except for old crop beans, however, losses were not large anywhere.

Wheat closed 1-2 lower, May blacktop on the Penrose junction Highway 64 road, in Woodruff and Cross counties. The West Memphis Asphalt Co., Inc., received the contract on a bid of $28,898.

Series of Six Meetings Called

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Meetings at seven Arkansas cities are planned this week by backers of a proposed home rule constitution amendment plan.

The amendment, which the Arkansas Committee for Home Rule is seeking to place on the November general election ballot, would permit cities more freedom in governing themselves and in levying taxes. Under present law, municipal taxes and salaries of city officials are limited by the state Legislature.

Bigelow Robinson of Little Rock, chairman of the committee, said the meetings are scheduled at Pine Bluff today, Texarkana and Hope tomorrow, and at Camden, El Dorado, Magnolia and Crossett Thursday.

Signatures of at least 33,513 qualified voters are needed to place the proposal on the ballot. Filing deadline is July 1.

Gambler Loses, Must Go to Jail

NEW YORK (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello has lost two more moves in federal court and is under orders to surrender next Monday to go to prison for income tax evasion.

First, the U. S. Court of Appeals refused to rehear arguments on a retrial plea. Later in the day, Judge John F. X. McGohy, who presided at Costello's trial in 1954, turned down a plea for a suspension of reduction of sentence, on the ground that Costello is suffering from cancer and getting along in years.

McGohey fixed the surrender date. Costello, 63, is under sentence of five years in prison and a $20,000 fine for evading $39,000 in income taxes. He has appealed without success up to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Unscarred himself, Wally, who has a soft voice and hands rough as sandpaper, is completely satisfied with his life.

"The country out there isn't crowded. It's open and beautiful."

"It's no way to get rich. Oh, goodness no, sir. I figure we make about a dollar an hour or less on safari, and we work 16 hours a day."

"It's not something a person goes into to make a lot of money. When we wear old hats and old clothes, it isn't just for atmosphere. But it's so much fun, it seems a shame to take money for it."

When spring rains halt the safaris, Jones works for the Kenya police at $120 a month, and as a policeman he participated in hunts against the savage Mau Maus.

The clients pay approximately $100 a day to go on safari. Most are well-to-do, but they range from Indiana schoolteachers to airplane pilots and Texas oilmen. "The Texans are about the best hunters," said Wally. "Some of the them can stalk game as well as we can. In fact I've learned a few tricks from them."

Many married couples now go on safaris. Papa holds the gun, mama holds the camera.

"It's a funny thing," Wally remarked, "but a husband and wife seem to get along together better on a safari than they do back home. It brings them closer together."

Eventually, Wally hopes to settle down on an African farm of his own and raise wheat and children.

"I'm still single," he said, grinning. "But I'm not only willing to marry — I'm begging."

However, girls, if your beau ideal is a professional white hunter, don't waste your stamps writing to Wally. He's already got a girl in mind — and she's in Africa.

Keep Past a Secret 11-Year Age Gap Chronic Borrowers

Dear Dorothy Dix: My sweet heart and I plan to marry when he gets out of service. I have one problem, however. Four years ago, when I was 16, I fell in love with a boy I had known since childhood. We were sure we were going to be married. We were intimate for a few months; then he became indifferent and we broke up.

How can I tell my fiancé? He has great faith in me and I'm afraid my past experience will shock him greatly. BOMBYE Dear Bombye: Don't tell, unless the facts are known to other people who might take a notion to act as informants.

Nothing can be gained by confessing something that happened several years ago, but let me outline the havoc that might result from telling. Your fiancé will undoubtedly be shocked, quite possibly to the point of breaking the engagement. If he does go through with the marriage, it's certain he'll never forget your early romance. That knowledge will make him eternally jealous and suspicious of you and will inspire many a bitter word.

As a solution to a knotty problem this may not be honest, but there are times, and people, with whom one must compromise. If you knew your confession would be met with understanding, tolerance and sympathy, you could make it. However, these qualities are seldom around when most needed.

If you decide on silence, it must be maintained absolutely. Tell before you're married, or not at all.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a girl of 17 and have been going with a man of 28 for a year. We are very much in love. He was married before and has two children. I've met them and they like me very much. We've talked of marriage but as he wants to be sure, this time, we've decided to wait about two years. Do you think it wise to marry a man so much older and one that has been married before?

WILMA Dear Wilma: In general I'd advise against the marriage, but you may be the one girl in a thousand who can handle it. The fact that you both are willing to wait is a very good sign. By the end of two years you should know whether a ready-made family can be taken in stride.

Dear Dorothy Dix: People are always coming to me to borrow money. It may be just a dime here or a quarter there, but it does add up. If they paid back, I wouldn't mind. I don't want to be considered a miser, but I work after school for my money and need it. Other kids could do the same. I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings.

Houseboat Sinks, Three Persons Drown

HUGHES (A) — A faulty command in the bathroom of a 20-foot steel houseboat flooded the boat yesterday. Three people drowned when it sank.

The houseboat heeled over shortly after it was anchored about 50 feet from the bank and horseshoe lake about 1 a. m. Eleven persons were aboard for a family fishing party.

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Akin of Proctor, Ark., and Robert E. Cunningham, 48, who farmed near Hughes. Mrs. Akin, 48, was the Proctor postmaster.

The life jacket Mrs. Akin wore apparently cost her life. She was found wedged in a cabin window. Akin, 48, a farmer, was trapped in the cabin. Cunningham's body was in shallow water about 20 feet from the sunken boat.

A survivor, J. C. Williams, of West Memphis, Ark., said the party had just finished a gay steak fry on shore when they decided to take the houseboat out for a bit of fishing.

Soon after anchoring he said Akin came out of the bathroom and shouted that water was pouring into the hull from the commode.

The houseboat capsized while Williams and M. H. Jamieson of Proctor, were trying to unfasten an auxiliary boat. The small boat also overturned.

The houseboat sank in 10 feet of water on the east arm of Horseshoe Lake, about eight miles from Hughes and 35 miles south of Memphis.

Survivors were Mr. and Mrs.

West Leaders Planning for NATO Meet

BY JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (A) — Secretary of State Dulles and other Western foreign ministers dug into a wide-ranging conference schedule today in preparation for the opening of a council meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Western diplomats say the two-day NATO session beginning tomorrow may be a momentous meeting for the 16-member ministerial council. Dulles has said one of the chief objectives is to plan the reshaping of NATO "into something more than a military alliance."

Shortly after he got here yesterday, he was given a French plan calling for a new international agency to distribute economic aid to the world's needy. He conferred two hours with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on the French proposal, which, informants said, urges U.S. cooperation in forming an aid agency outside NATO.

Pineau reportedly told Dulles the organization should be set up "within the framework of the United Nations or some similar world organization," and should not be incorporated in NATO in order to keep it free of charges of cold war links.

American spokesmen declined to give Dulles' reaction to the French plan. They said he and Pineau also discussed the current U. N. disarmament talks, tensions in the Middle East and the peace mission of U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld to that region.

Dulles so far has not disclosed any proposals for broadening the scope of NATO. His support for reshaping the organization apparently is emphasis on trade and aid by extending NATO into the political and economic fields.

Hitchcock Is Learning About Acting

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (A) — Alfred Hitchcock, who once remarked that "actors are cattle," now is finding out what it's like to be one of the cattle.

Actors have always suspected the director of being a frustrated member of their craft. Why else would he inject himself in a brief scene in every one of his films?

The Hitchcock ham became virulent last fall when he began his television show. He came on at the beginning and the end to kid the whole proceedings including, daringly enough, the sponsor and his commercials. His candor, plus the quality of his suspense dramas, captured the public fancy.

Recently he realized the impact of his TV activities in New York, where he was filming locations for "The Wrong Man."

"It was awful," he said, though appearing to have enjoyed it. "The depth was reached when the location manager had to ask the director-me to take a drive because people were crowding around him and ruining the scene. Imagine!

"Everywhere I went, people would point at me. It got to the point where I could think of nothing else to do but point back. Once I encountered a woman in the subway. She continued pointing at me as I stared at her. Finally I asked her what she was doing. She replied that she had heard I would point back at her er backed the board last week. But two members of his Cabinet had some opinions on the subject — at least, before Eisenhower expressed his.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said the brake on borrowing "may have been a mistake." He said, "I see no threat of inflation at all." Secretary of Commerce said "money is tight" and he thought making it harder to borrow might be a handicap.

Weeks, Commerce Department, in its most recent report on the economy, painted a pretty picture. It said there were some leveling off from 1955 but the economy is on a high plane.

His latest figures show: as of March 31 consumer credit was $45,537,000,000 (or 5 1/2 billion dollars higher than last year). Installment credit was $27,964,000,000 (up almost five billion), and non-installment credit was $7,572,000,000 (up more than half a billion).

This report showed just how much people were up to their necks in new automobiles. Auto installment credit was $24,565,000,000, or more than half the nation's total consumer credit of 35 1/2 billion dollars.

The Little Man and Talks of Economy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (A) — The little man gets pains in his head and dollars signs before his eyes when he hears talk about economics. The economists always seem to be disagreeing about money, inflation, deflation, credit.

And when they disagree most they can sound the most positive. Even when they look into the future, as they are always doing, they don't see the same things.

The little man thought the pains in his head might go away if he just studied up a bit.

Then he could be positive, too, and even if he was wrong, he would feel more comfortable because he could be wrong without having doubts about being right.

He opened a book called "Modern Economics." The first sentence told him: "In these times almost everyone regards himself as something of an economist."

This was wonderful news. From now on no matter what he thought he would always have plenty of company. He thought he had plenty of company already.

He had heard sales of automobiles and farm machinery were falling, that there have been layoffs in both industries but that employment in general has gone up while basic wages are rising.

But it was talk about credit that had been giving him those pains in the head lately.

Last March Rep. Patman (D-Tex.) reflected on the borrowing Americans were doing—they were doing it at a record rate—and seemed to think it was pretty good.

"Credit," Patman said, "is the poor man's capital." And he said "I don't see any harm in it" if consumer credit was twice its present size. But the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve system was getting worried about borrowing.

It thought too much of it might push inflation. So it raised the discount rate for its member banks. This was meant to put a bit of a brake on borrowing because people would have to pay a little higher interest rate on the money they borrowed.

Immediately experts began disagreeing on whether this was good or necessary. President Eisenhower

Johnson Hands Shivers Defeat in Texas Vote

By DAVE CHEVENS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Few squabblers are expected in Texas' 254 county Democratic conventions tomorrow. Most of them are meeting to approve decisions of rank-and-file members to make Sen. Lyndon Johnson the state's new party leader.

Johnson handed Gov. Allan Shivers his first political defeat in 22 years of public life Saturday to lead what the senator calls a "moderate" 36-member Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention in New York. He also won landslide support as the state's "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination.

The Associated Press tally showed that Shivers carried only 41 counties while Johnson was rolling up 1,244 of the 1,900 votes to be cast in the state convention against 348 for Shivers.

The Senate Majority leader who teamed with House Speaker Sam Rayburn to unseat Shivers as Texas party leader promised that the delegation he leads to the national convention will work to find the best candidate and come home and support him. That was a cue in 1952 to support Dwight D. Eisenhower — which helped lead Texas into the Republican fold.

THE LONG BODY

CHAPTER XXVI

Basil turned to another phase of the subject. "How did Cushing and Hazard get along with the older men?"

"Good enough. They were likeable boys. Just couldn't take Army discipline. Too young, I guess. Both spent at least half their hitches on stable police or confined to quarters."

"He was the leader of the two, Cushing was." The sergeant dropped the "Mr." whenever his mind moved into the past. "Hazard wasn't far behind, but that Cushing was a real limb of Satan. Had the stuff inside him to make a mighty fine cavalryman in a real war. Probably would have come out with a commission and covered with medals."

"What makes you think so?" probed Basil.

"It's hard to put into words, but — well, partly because men liked him and partly because he wasn't afraid of anything. A lot of men learn to overcome fear in the Army, but he didn't have it to overcome. He just wasn't built so he could feel fear or at least he didn't tact that way. He was so quick and so sure of himself that he could get away with taking risks that another man would have fumbled because all the time underneath the other man would have been afraid. But Cushing wouldn't be. He enjoyed taking risks. Most men don't. Cushing had a streak of the lawless in him and you've got to have that in war. It's really not a very lawful business by civilian standards.

"You see Cushing was sort of born at the wrong time. Two hundred years ago he'd have been one of those fellows you read about in books. As it is, he even missed the two big wars we've had, by being born a little too late for the one I was in and a little too early for this last one."

"And Hazard did not have this daredevil nerve?"

"Oh, he had nerve, the kind you or I might have, but Cushing is different. He'd dare anything. Like that one time when I sure did think that maybe they'd gotten themselves in a real bad mess. But I was wrong."

The door opened. The woman who entered was comfortably stout in a fresh gingham dress, her face almost as sun-browned as the sergeant's, her blue eyes cool and quick.

The sergeant jumped up to take a bag of groceries from her. As she took off white cotton gloves he said, "This is Mr. Willing. He's working with the State Police on this business of Miss Lash."

"Oh?" Her tone was as cool as her eyes. Basil had an impression that the sergeant would not have talked as freely if his wife had been at home.

"I was just leaving, Mrs. Keating," Basil rose.

"Good day, sir." She was politely hostile.

Basil stepped into the sunshine. As he passed the open kitchen window, her voice came through in a tense undertone. "What did you tell him?"

"Nothing, dear."

Basil let his car coast down the hill to Cristina's cottage and parked it on the grass verge of the road. A State Police car was parked farther along now and young Sergeant Stevens was getting out.

Basil frowned. "Trouble?"

"No, Doctor. Just routine. Now Miss Lash is dead, there doesn't seem to be enough money left to maintain this house and a private nurse. The old man is utterly helpless and he has no relatives or even close friends. He'll have to be taken to a state hospital. Captain asked me to stop by this afternoon and help the nurse get him ready for the move. The ambulance will be here at 4 o'clock."

"I'd like to see him if I may," said Basil.

"Sure, but he can't talk, you know. Pity. He may have heard something the night she was killed, something he'll never be able to tell us about."

Stevens led the way toward the house. As they passed the open door of the garage, Basil paused. "That's a handsome car. How did she pay for it?"

"Dunno. Maybe she had some source of income we don't know about. The professor has nothing. He was dismissed from the university. She rented this cottage, bought the car and paid the grocery bills, but there's only a couple of hundred dollars left in her checking account and no other money we can find."

Asthey passed through the living room, Basil said, "I suppose the house was searched thoroughly?"

"Oh, yes." Stevens glanced around the room. He paused at a French window. "There's the old man now on the terrace."

He was exactly as Alice had described him—a living mummy in a wicker chair, swathed in overcoat and blanket, his hat shading his eyes. They were lifeless eyes as if he did not see or even feel the sunshine. He seemed to be waiting, patiently and incuriously, for death. It came to Basil that those who die in old age of a wasting disease are fortunate, for nature so weakens body and mind that all fear and resentment of death has gone long before it comes. Apparently the vortex of plot and counterplot, hatred and fear, that had swirled around Cristina ever since she came to this cottage, had left the old man so untouched in his own private world that, even if he had been physically capable of testifying for or against her, he might not have bothered to do so.

The "under-story" of the events that led to Cristina's death was beginning to take shape in Basil's mind—an erratic fantastic shape. (To Be Continued)

Politics in Swing Toward Maryland

By The Associated Press
Political attention swung toward Maryland's primary election today, with emphasis chiefly on senatorial races.

Primary balloting also is scheduled tomorrow in five other states—Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, New Mexico and Florida. The Florida voting is for state offices, ahead of the May 29 presidential primary.

In today's Maryland election, President Eisenhower and Sen. Estes Kefauver have only to defeat "uninstructed delegations" in their respective Republican and Democratic presidential prefer-

$12 Billion in Arms Shipped to Free World

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told Congress today the United States has shipped more than $12,400,000,000 worth of planes, tanks, guns and other military supplies to free world countries during the last six years.

About 800 million dollars worth was shipped during the last half of 1955, Eisenhower said in a semi-annual report on the mutual security program.

He gave no breakdown of either the amounts or the items shipped to individual countries.

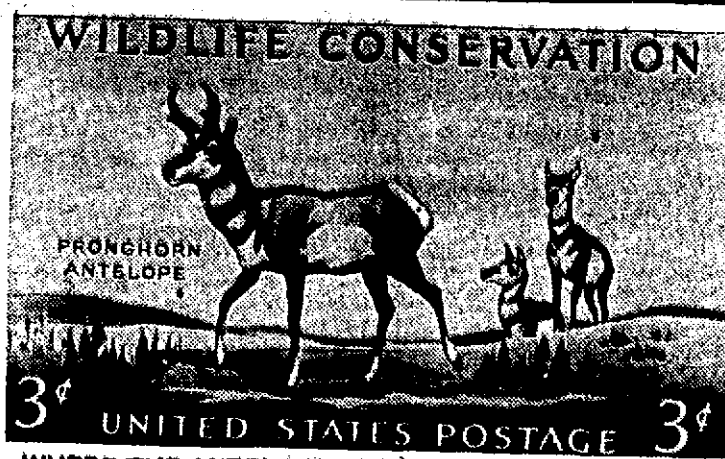

One of the main achievements of the Mutual Security Program, he said, has been to assist in building up the forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries in Europe, including Greece and Turkey.

The NATO members, he added, once primaries. Voters can't cross party lines and write-in voting is prohibited.

A hotter fight—a five-way contest for the Democratic nomination for senator—was climaxed in today's voting. Former Sen. Milward E. Tydings and George P. Mahoney are the main contenders.

Tydings was defeated in 1950 by Republican John Marshall Butler after 24 years in Washington. Mahoney, a paving contractor, is a good vote getter who has lost three statewide races by narrow margins.

WHERE THE ANTELOPE PLAY—A stamp emphasizing the importance of wildlife conservation will be released at Gunnison, Colo., in late June. The pronghorn antelope, subject of the issue, has been protected, studied and transplanted under scientific guidance so that its numbers have increased from a low of 17,000 to herds large enough to allow hunting in five western states. The occasion of the stamp sale will be the annual convention of Colorado's Isaac Walton league.

have put up about 85 per cent of the cost of their military development during the six-year period of the program's existence, he said. United States contribution has been about 15 per cent.

The United States also has been building up its own armed strength on the Continent, Eisenhower reported, with shipments of new weapons including "Nike" Corporal, Honest John and Matador missiles and 2.4mm. gun shells, all with an atomic capability, and some F100 Super Sabre Jets. He added:

"The United States plans to provide its NATO partners with certain types of modern defense weapons and equipment which we are now furnishing in increasing numbers to our own NATO forces in Europe.

"Many European countries are now able to finance a greater share of the cost of maintaining their existing forces using United States equipment furnished in prior years. A greater proportion of United States assistance can therefore be used in helping them acquire the new weapons necessary for strengthening the common defense effort."

'STEVENSON' WINS

WASHINGTON (UP) — A slow-starting stable pony named Stevenson won the presidential primary sweepstakes yesterday at Laurel Race Track in nearby Maryland. Kefauver placed second, Johnson third and Symington Russell and Harriman were also rans.

UN Envoy Is Shaping Report on Mission

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today shaped up his final report on his Middle East peace mission. The report was certain to win Security Council approval at meetings expected to be held next week.

The secretary general flew back yesterday to receive the plaudits of welcoming diplomats. In Paris, meanwhile, the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France agreed that the U. N. must keep the peace in Palestine from now on.

Hammarskjöld declined any comment on French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau's announcement that the Western Big Three had agreed they could no longer act under their 1950 declaration guaranteeing Israel's boundaries against aggression. Secretary of State Dulles said after the NATO meetings broke up that the job was up to the Security Council.

The French considered that the Russians objected because it excluded them. But U.S. officials in Paris said the three-power agreement could still be invoked if the U. N. fails to keep the peace.

The effect of the Big Three's new decision was to admit that Russia, because of Soviet bloc sales of arms to the Arabs, now has a large voice in the Middle East situation.

Hammarskjöld himself was cau-

ST. LOUIS (AP) — That some object which glowed about 80,000 feet above St. Louis, Mo. 2 1/2 hours last night was just weather balloon.

The Weather Bureau and jet pilots, who went up for a closer look, confirmed it.

But before they did, there was considerable speculation by weather experts, military men, astronomers, amateur gazers and "flying saucer" addicts.

tious about his accomplishments in monthlong negotiations for Palestine cease-fire.

"Only the future can show what thanks to the good will of governments concerned, may grow out of it," he said.

But he added that his mission had proved that the U. N. can help member governments agree on peaceful steps instead of trying to impose a decision on them.

Bolt, Balding Featured in Singles Test

PORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Tommy Bolt meets Al Balding in the feature singles test of the International PGA Matches today as the United States seeks to wrap up its fifth straight Hopkins Trophy.

These two shot the hottest golf yesterday in the four-ball matches which the United States won 5½ to 3½. Bolt and Gene Littler beat Bill Mawhinney and Murray Tucker of Canada 9-up and scored 3 points. Bolt, could do no wrong on the greens.

"If I had putted like that yesterday," said the lean Texan, speaking of the Colonial National Invitational Tournament, in which he finished second, "I'd have won that one in a breeze."

Bolt and Littler had a best ball of 61. Mawhinney and Tucker a 70. Balding and Gordon Brydson of Canada walloped Mike Souchak and Cary Middlecoff 5 and 4. Balding amazed even his teammates with a terrific game himself, played a best ball of 64 despite a double bogey 6 on the 15th hole.

The Balding-Brydson who won the full three points (one point for each nine and one for the match) and it was up to the other team match — Doug Ford and Ted Kroll of the United States vs. Bill Kerr and Stan Leonard of Canada — to decide the issue.

Ford and Kroll managed to win the second nine 1-up after the teams tied in the first. Thus the United States got 2½ points to ½. It would have been a flat tie if ½ points each but for a missed birdie putt by Leonard on the final green.

New Leader of Allied Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House today announced the selection of Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe to be commander-in-chief of Allied Forces in Southern Europe, succeeding Adm. William M. Fechteler.

Briscoe now is deputy chief of naval operations in charge of fleet operations and readiness.

Zuverink Stars in Relief Role for Baltimore

BY ED WILKS

Of The Associated Press

George Zuverink, the guy nobody wanted, right now is the No. 1 relief pitcher in the American League, getting the job done almost on a daily basis for the Baltimore Orioles who can hardly do a thing without him.

The 28-year-old right-hander, who in his 11-year career has failed to hang on with Cleveland, Cincinnati and Detroit and who wound up in semipro ball as a free agent after his first year in the minors, has stroked in from the bullpen 12 of Baltimore's 20 games this season. And of the nine games the Birds have won to date, he's saved six and won two.

Zuverink, purchased in desperation from Detroit last July, was called upon for the third time in two days last night and with two pitches snapped off a Tiger rally and picked up a 4-3 victory that lifted Baltimore into sixth place while reducing his earned run average to a nifty 1.50.

Pitching was the pass word in the other three games played in the majors yesterday, too. In the American, Tom Brewer struck out nine and cut off Cleveland on four hits in a 5-1 Boston victory. In the National, Milwaukee's Bob Buhl beat Brooklyn, 3-1, on six hits to retain the Braves slim lead in first place, and St. Louis, helped by a weird five-run inning and dandy relief pitching by Lindy McDaniel, Gordon Jones and Jackie Collum, smacked the New York Giants 6-3 to tie the Cincinnati for second place.

Zuverink, who finished both ends of Baltimore's doubleheader sweep against Detroit Sunday, came on last night after the Tigers had scored a tying run off starter Bill Wright in the ninth. Zuverink's second pitch to Harvey Kuenn was rapped into an inning-ending double play. Then after relief Al Aber had walked the bases full in the Baltimore ninth, Hal Smith banged a single to break it up.

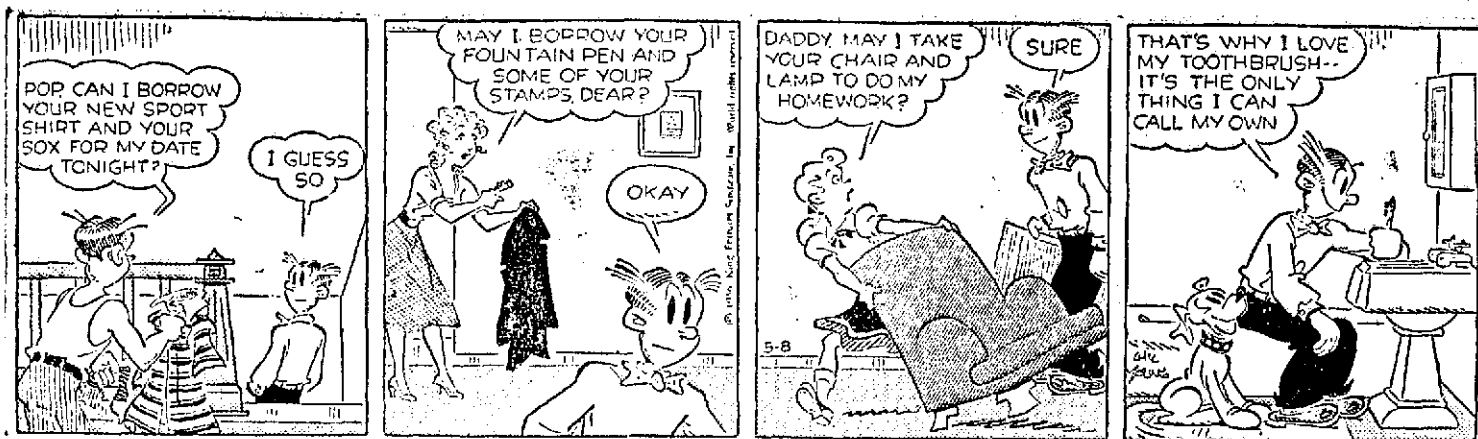

Brewer won his third against one defeat by granting Cleveland only two singles in eight innings. He retired the first 16 men in order, striking out seven, while the Red Sox were pasting Mike Garcia for 11 hits and four runs in five frames. Billy Goodman singled and tripled for the Bostonians while Dick Gernert and Norm Zuverink homered.

Buhl, now 2-0, had the help of two killing doubleplays while dumping the champion Brooks to their third straight defeat. Del Crandall drove in two runs and Hank Aaron homered as Carl Erskine lost his second.

Morrilton School to Abide by Law

MORRILTON, (AP) — School Board Chairman Bob Harris today expressed "disappointment" that the integration issue was brought into the school system by the offer to build a model school system at Morrilton.

The $11 million offer was made by George Reynolds, president of Winrock Enterprises, Inc., who was quoted as saying, "No one in his right mind would set out to build two separate systems under present laws."

Harris said the integration problem was never discussed nor "involved" in the Rockefeller offer. Tentative estimates place the cost of the project at 2 1/2 million dollars.

"The only thing we have to do is participate in the plan," Harris said, "is to be for it. We have no plans to integrate."

Harris said his district will abide by "state law." He said that other districts are required to integrate. "We will follow our present system" of separate schools for the races.

About 17 per cent of the 2,000 students here are Negroes. Harris said Rockefeller merely wanted to help Arkansas with its education problems.

"He made the offer first to Morrilton because of its proximity to Arkansas State Teachers College at Conway, but if Morrilton doesn't want it, somebody else will get it," Harris said.

Reynolds has said that raising the school millage probably would be the only string attached to the offer.

U. S. Again Delays Blast of H-Bomb

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY AT ENIWETOK, Tuesday, (UP) — Atomic officials have postponed for the second time the explosion of America's first air-dropped hydrogen bomb.

Officials announced late yesterday that the explosion had now been tentatively scheduled for early Thursday morning (early Wednesday afternoon, EDT). However, they had no assurance that the weather will be any better by then.

The bomb was originally scheduled for firing today, but unfavorable winds forced test officials to postpone it until tomorrow, although they were pretty sure they would have to postpone it again.

Officials said "unfavorable northerly winds at practically all altitudes" forced the news postponement. If the big bomb were exploded under such conditions, it would mean the south of Bikini would be dusted with dangerous radioactive fallout.

"This task force would want to avoid," officials said, "the weapon, the scientists and the crew members of the B-52 intercontinental jet bomber that will drop the bomb have been technically ready for the test for days. But the weather has not."

Weather experts explained that wind patterns up to 100,000 feet or higher, the controlling factor. The weather delays are disappointing to the 13,500 bronzed men of "Operation Redwing" who have been laboring for months to get the $150 million test program launched.

Dr. William E. Ogle, acting commander of the test task force for scientific matters, said the air burst will not create fallout comparable to the deadly chemicals spread by the big surface explosion of March 1, 1954.

But even so, officials were determined to take no chances. They want to be sure that upper air currents will carry any fallout safely to sea.

The air-dropped H-bomb will not have the awesome "earthquake" effect of the 1954 H-bomb.

Annual 4-H Rally Held

Lincoln High School's 4-H Club in Washington was the host to thirteen other 4-H Clubs in the county in which some 308 4-H'ers and adult leaders attended Friday, May 4, 1956.

The rally began at 9:30 a. m. with registration which lasted thirty minutes. Alvin Wilson, 4-H County president, presided.

The meeting got off to a very good start states C. B. Smith, Assistant County Agent. A good welcome was extended to the 4-H'ers and leaders by Helen R. Frison, president of the Washington 4-H Club and everyone felt that they were part of the school.

Clara M. Garmon, county Council secretary, called the roll and all thirteen of the clubs represented gave a talent number and a club

It will be exploded from 10,000 feet and will transmit little nuclear violence to the ground in the form of earthquake waves. Ogle disclosed this earthquake effect yesterday, adding a new dimension to the four deadly ones already known to result from atomic explosions. The other four are heat, blast, radiation and fallout.

Reporters covering this year's atomic tests learned of the earthquake effect in a tour of old and new H-bomb sites in the atomic proving grounds. They learned that a medium-sized H-bomb exploded high in the air can inflict enough blast damage on brick homes 12 miles from the explosion to kill 85 per cent of the occupants.

But the newly disclosed effects of the big surface explosion of March, 1954, show that a ground burst could wreck homes with an earthquake shock at least 20 miles from the target center.

Thus, it appears that man now can wreck his cities at will with artificial earthquakes. Fired in the heart of a target city, the H-bomb can demolish ordinary brick homes in distant suburbs.

one enjoyed. Mrs. G. N. Davis was the speaker for the rally. She chose as her subject - "Building Better Communities Through 4-H Club Work." Mrs. Davis gave a wonderful discourse of the subject. The when's, the how's, the what's and the why's of carrying demonstrations are stressed in her address.

Around The World

BAGSHOT, England (UP) — Sir Simon Marks, a chainstore millionaire, announced today he planned to vote for his butler who is running for Parliament next Saturday as a Conservative.

The butler, Donald Kenneth Collins, a neat five-foot-six, is the very model of a lifetime gentleman.

"Why shouldn't he run?" challenged Collins' boss. "I shall certainly vote for him. He is a good fellow and public spirited. We sometimes discuss politics together."

Collins pitched his bowler into the ring for a seat on the Bagshot rural council, the local government organization that administers the luxurious Sunningdale area where he butties the Marks mansion.

Moreover, Collins announced his candidacy on the ticket of Prime Minister Anthony Eden's Conservative party, not the Labor party, and it may be just as well.

The seat represents "millionaires' mile" and no Laborite has won as long as anyone can remember.

"The time has gone when a butler had no interests other than his boss," Collins said. "There has never been any objection in this house to my having a political career."
